... all the past is future

Instead of a traditional cover that merely binds pages, this year's staff decided to design one that carried out the theme, "All the past is future." The two arrows represent the influences of the past and future on Morton Governors and their school.

FREEDOM is a hollow-sounding word unless it is backed by equality and understanding.

FORMING AN ARCH, naked steel beams await a crust of mortar and bricks to compose the shell of the structure.

Construction draws curious governors

Confronted with 600 extra students, Morton's walls bulged and facilities grew limited. However, the administration found it helpful to split lunch hours, postpone certain classes, and stagger schedules.

Crowded halls and classrooms and over-populated lockers forced the School Board to decide on a new school.

Technical executives chose the corner of 169th Street and Grand Avenue as the site. After studying numerous blueprints and debating contractors' bids, School Board members began final plans, which included windowless classrooms, a 4,000 seat athletic stadium, and an indoor swimming pool.

Obviously an object of curiosity, the new school attracted many visitors, both young and old. On weekends students drove past the new school in order to observe the rapidly progressing construction.

Viewing the new school with mixed emotions, underclassmen began counting the blocks and measuring the distance between their homes and the new school. The prospect of home games on the Governors own football field and basketball court overshadowed the regret of leaving the "old" Morton, home of the Governors.

ANTICIPATING QUITTING TIME, a construction worker strives to meet the September, 1967, completion deadline set for the new Morton Senior High School.

CONCERNED not only with education, Morton High School also endeavors to broaden the interests of students and helps them to become more individualistic in their thinking.

IMMOBILE until human hands employ them, wooden planks lie tranquilly in the shade waiting for the workers' early-morning arrival.

PONDERING OVER his English Literature assignment, senior Phil Skager analyzes the writings of several prominent Elizabethan authors.

WHILING AWAY unassigned periods, students enjoy the freedom and responsibility they experience in the Association Room. Away from classroom restraints, Hazel Witte, Dave Mustoe, and Mike Guiden openly and candidly discuss issues of interest to them while Diane Bjarklund catches up on Association minutes.

BRIGHT BALLS and shiny tinsel greet Gavornors as they enter school during the Christmas season. Diane Bjarklund and Kathy Hmuraich put the final touches on the Student Association Christmas tree.

Studies, play, relaxation fill leisure time

AFTER COMPLETING the duties of a monitor, senior Fred Shinkle finds time to catch up on studying.

PERFORMING before the student body in the Christmas assembly, senior Jim Gerovac sings a ballad which he composed especially for the occasion.

COLD WATER gives a lift to members of the Top Hot and Mortonite football teams. After half-time refreshment the Mortonite girls went on to win the ball game, 24-0.

FASHION CONSCIOUS sophomores Kathy Mosca and Chris Czlanka prepare to leave school after a club meeting.

PENNY LOAFERS and black socks, characteristic footwear of male Governors, combined with dark slacks to form the collegiate look.

New trends in music, fashion evident

COLOR-COORDINATED OUTFITS and knee-socks were paired with loafers to make up feminine fashion.

This was the year of wide paisley ties and over-the-knee socks, of flowered bathing suits and short skirts, of hip-hugger slacks and print jeans. Long hair for both sexes was in full swing, and one was labeled "Joe College" if one wore loafers and cuffed slacks.

New trends appeared in more than just fashion. Change also marked teen-age music. The Beatles still ranked high in popularity, but more and more teens demanded Bob Dylan and Peter, Paul, and Mary.

Not only music and fashion were caught up in the new generation, but a new way of thinking emerged. Companies advertised to try their product and "come alive." Young people, subject to the draft, grew concerned with the Viet Nam situation. Patriotic songs, such as "Day of Decision," made the popularity ratings. The tempo had changed; teens were alive and swinging.

Athletes gain national, state, local fame

Always backing the Governors, yet individually standing out, Steve Vadas, Ron Volbrecht, and Ron Meseberg each earned his place in Morton's hall of fame.

After being placed on the Tri-City All-Star squad, senior Steve Vadas was nominated for all-state recognition by a Bloomington newspaper. However, his greatest accomplishment was gaining a spot on PARADE's national all-star squad. All-American honors are only awarded to the best prep football players in the United States.

The Tri-City team also claimed Ron Volbrecht as a member. In addition, the senior quarterback received honorable mention on the state "dream team."

Junior Ron Meseberg was the only Governor wrestler to win the individual title of Sectional Champion, losing only to an all-state football quarterback in the Regionals. He compiled a record of 14 wins and one loss.

AFTER LETTERING IN FOOTBALL for three consecutive years, center Steve Vadas gained the title of All-American.

SECOND IN THE REGIONALS, junior Ron Meseberg earned the individual title of Sectional Wrestling Champian.

ACTIVE AND VERSATILE, quarterback Ron Volbrecht secured a spot on the state "dream team."

COMMUNITY CHEST representatives whose duty is to persuade students to donate are Terry Rhodes, Vicki Williams, Kathy Cergizan, Linda Nichols, and Mike Guiden.

THOUGHTFULLY GAZING across the frant yard of the school, senior Barbara Burton contemplates her responsibilities as Morton's D.A.R. award winner.

Students' endeavors

PLEASED WITH RESULTS of the Teens' March of Dimes, Co-chairmen Cynthia Arvay and Terry Rhodes admire volunteers' collections.

merit honors for selves, families, school

Enthusiasm and eagerness were two attributes that helped several Morton students to excell in various fields and to receive recognition for their achievements.

Qualities of leadership, citizenship, scholarship, and service characterized the D.A.R. award recipient. Every teacher voted for the senior girl whom he believed most worthy of this honor. She then competed with girls throughout Lake County by taking a test in government.

Selected on the basis of their interest in social studies, delegates to Hoosier Girls' State and Boys' State spent one week at Indiana University last summer. There, with representatives from high schools throughout the state, students actively participated in model governments. State, county, and local administrations were examined. After mock elections young politicians held offices such as mayor, governor, and party chairmen.

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, held during the junior year, helps students to learn their strengths and weaknesses in scholastic achievement. For those who score in the top two percent of this test, it also serves as a start toward a college scholarship. Four Morton seniors were semi-finalists in the National Merit program. Further testing and evidence of financial need determined finalists and scholarship recipients.

Touring establishments supported by the United Community Chest gave five Morton seniors a deeper insight into the needs of others. Selected through the Student Association, these students reported their experiences to the student body and launched the annual fund drive.

Assigning territories to student volunteers and organizing collections were the main concerns of Morton March of Dimes co-chairmen, chosen by the Association.

STOPPING BETWEEN CLASSES, Morton's Hoosier Boys' State delegates Jim Rospond, Jerry Finley, Ron Volbrecht, and Dennis Dawson discuss their experiences there.

HOOSIER GIRLS' STATE delegates Barb Burton, Sue Smaron, and Hazel Witte take refuge from a hectic life in Morton's courtyard. A week at Indiana University helped the girls to broaden their understanding of state and local governments.

Upperclassmen

ANXIOUSLY AWAITING her train, senior Lindo Williams looks up from a list of scheduled activities to be disappointed by an oncoming freight train.

AWE-INSPIRING, the famed statue of President Lincoln reminds its visitors of Civil War days.

PERCHED HIGH above everything around it, the weather-vane remains a famous part of Washington's home. Mount Vernon showed the visitors a type of historical study new to many of them.

receive welcome break on annual trip

Abandoning all thoughts of homework assignments, impending examinations, and class lectures, 94 Morton juniors and seniors travelled to Washington, D.C., and New York City, late in October, with upperclass students from the other four Hammond high schools.

The anxious travellers boarded the train Tuesday evening for an all-night journey to the Nation's capital. Allowed one piece of luggage, the students arrived with paper sacks, large carry-alls, overnight cases, and other supplementary containers.

After a long night on the train, they stepped once more on unmoving ground, only to discover that they must carry their luggage three blocks to waiting buses.

Planned tours in Washington included the Wax Museum, the Archives, the Capitol, and the Library of Congress. During their free time students shopped and visited the Smithsonian Institution, the Washington Monument, and the Post Office Department.

Tours of Chinatown and Greenwich Village gave the young tourists greater insight into a large city's sociological problems. New York also offered the bright lights of Broadway and Times Square and the quiet peacefulness of St. Patrick's Cathedral and Central Park.

CONSTRUCTION OF A MEMORIAL to the late President Kennedy had already begun when the students visited Arlington Cemetery. The flame which Mrs. Kennedy placed on his grave burns in constant memory of him.

SHINING ALABASTER pillars before the White House add to the majesty of the President's home. Tourists admire the building and the grounds, particularly the fountain.

Election returns climax busy campaign

ELECTIONS OVER, John Webster begins the task of removing campaign posters from the halls.

PERSUADING CLASSMATES to vote for him is a campaigner's big step toward election. Frank Lambert enumerates his assets to Jane Hluska.

DISPLAYING SUPPORT of her favorites for sophomore officers, Theresa Tokoly is helped by Gerry Rond.

GLIDING SOFTLY across the floor, couples waltz to the music of Len Warning and his Orchestra.

MOUNTING THE STAGE, President Chester Bailor prepares to accept the duties and responsibilities that await him.

Assembly, ball recognize new officers

HOMEMADE COOKIES added to the enjoyment of the Inaugural Ball. Mary Russell offers refreshments to Chester Bailor.

Tiny buttons and huge posters marked student campaigns for various positions of leadership. Conducted in early spring, elections for class and Student Association officers aroused student participation in school affairs. Association vice-president oversaw all student elections. Finalists, after primary elections, spoke to the entire student body giving their qualifications and expectations for Morton High School.

Solemn promises to fulfill the duties of their jobs were offered by newly-elected officers at the Inaugural Assembly in November. Mr. W. W. Becker, principal, bestowed the office of Student Association president upon Chester Bailor, who swore in the cabinet. Every student present joined his representatives and senators in taking the Student Association pledge.

"Memories are made of this," the theme of the annual Inaugural Ball, saw a record number of couples dancing to the music of Len Warning and his Orchestra. For the first time in Student Association history, the semi-formal affair, honoring newly-initiated officers, was a "turn-about" dance. Rather than losing money or just "breaking even," this year's ball earned a profit.

Queen reigns at homecoming game

REIGNING AS QUEEN at the 1966 Homecoming game was Kathy Cergizan, elected from five candidates by the student body.

Screams of ecstasy and sobs of joy echoed throughout the stadium as Student Association President Chester Bailor announced the name of Morton's 1966-67 Homecoming Queen. From the five senior girls composing the Homecoming Court, the student body elected Kathy Cergizan to represent them. The newly-crowned queen and her court reigned with their escorts over the second half of the football game against Hammond Tech.

Weeks of preparation went into the success of Homecoming festivities. Floats, prepared by the senior and junior classes, led the parade of queen candidates and boosters to the Hammond High football field. "We've Got a Whale of a Team," the theme of the senior float, was depicted by a towering blue crepe-paper whale. A huge rolling pin smashing a Tech Tiger portrayed the theme of the junior float—"Flatten' Em."

To acquaint the students with the court, elected by the senior class, an assembly was held the day of queen elections. Each of the candidates was asked a question similar to those asked of the "Miss America" finalists. The girls' answers to these questions helped students select the one who they believed showed the greatest school spirit and most pleasing personality.

MISS ARDIS KAUFMAN

MISS SHARON STRAYER

MISS LINDA SORBELLO

MISS SHEILA BIGLER

STRIVING to boost school spirit, juniors Linda Josway, Lu Ann Schwandt, and Gayle Herochik make final adjustments on their float a few minutes before parade time.

HOMECOMING TRADITIONS—a mum, a football roster, and a booster button—are part of every Governor's memory.

FINISHING THE WHALE and hanging its sign, Lauro Bjorklund and Joyce Carter complete preparations for the senior float. "We've Got a Whale of a Team—Whale On 'Em" read the signs hung on either side of the truckbed.

Students' donations

COLLECTING FOR BE AND TRUNG is senior Frank Swisher.

INTERVIEWING THE PRESIDENT in an "official" press conference, Shelley Brown asks about the kidnapped Be and Trung.

ADDRESSING the student body in a press conference, President Johnsan (Hazel Witte) tells of the kidnapped Be and Trung while his wife Lady Bird (Pam Scott) looks on.

aid Vietnamese children Be and Trung

Staged newscasts and weather reports, a Presidential press conference, and a take-off from a popular television program were parts of the Government Club assembly held to collect money for the club's Vietnamese foster children. Nguyen Thi Be and Nguyen Thi Trung were adopted three years ago and are supported solely by Governors. Following the two skits, planned by club members, enthusiastic students ran through the auditorium asking fellow-Governors for donations.

"Cupid's Concerto, 1967," held annually for the two children's support, this year netted over $100. A king and a queen from each class were crowned at the dance. From the four couples a school king and queen—seniors Dave Barron and Sharon Strayer—were elected by the entire student body. Music for the casual affair was provided by the "Rubber Souls," a local combo.

"YOUR HIPPY-DIPPY WEATHER WOMAN," senior Mary Lou Sheldon, presented a "hippy-dippy" weather report during the Government Club assembly on March 22.

CROWNED AT THE DANCE, class kings and queens are Ran Eatinger and Vicki Westerfield (juniors), Ed Skager and Ja

Rybicki (sophomores), Randy Hlad and Marsha Hunt (freshmen), and Dave Barron and Sharan Strayer (seniors).

BURNING WITH JEALOUSY, Jack (Larry Buechley) watches Amy (Donna Bergner) kiss his "aunt's" cheek (Gary Austin).

GIVING FRIENDLY ADVICE, the Artful Dodger (Jim Deiatte) tells Oliver (Steve Munsey) to consider himself part of the family.

Plays create aura of mystery, passion

Electrifying currents of excitement travelled through the air as the audience waited for the house lights to dim and the actors to come to life.

OLIVER!, a musical presented by both the drama and vocal departments on March 9, 10, and 11, tells the story of a young orphan's search for love and security. He joins a gang of pick-pockets but is caught while trying to rob a doctor who finally realizes that Oliver is his lost grandson and takes him into his home.

Slapstick comedy, "Dark Doings at the Crossroads or Who Stole the Salad Dressing?" was one of three one-act plays staged on January 21. "Pullman Car Hiawatha" by Thornton Wilder and "The Pigeons" by Lawrence Osgood were the other two one-acts presented as part of the Actors' Workshop. This theater group helps the students to learn acting and directing techniques.

"Charlie's Aunt" is the story of three adventurous college students who invite two girls to tea on the pretense of meeting their aunt. When the aunt is unable to attend, she is replaced by one of the boys.

WITH THE AID of Glen Williams, Larry Buechley persuades his father (Mike Usinger) to date Charlie's Aunt (Gary Austin).

EXASPERATED Marcia Lambert threatens to strike Evelyn Hapf in "The Pigeons," one of three one-act plays presented in January.

UNAWARE that Oliver (Steve Munsey) is peeking over his shoulder, Fagin (Ed Straub) examines his jewels.

SHAKING HIS CANE at Jack Dalton (Tony Willard), Augustus Kerplunk (George Dudzik) feebly protects his daughter Laurinda (Gerry Rospand).

Crazy attire is put aside as seniors don

PAUSING TO DISCUSS PLANS for a hoe-down are seniors Joyce Clauson and Don Williams. Hobo-Hillbilly Day was one of four days set aside for seniors.

STYLISHLY DRESSED, Len Sunde pauses on Dress-up Day to think of the future.

caps, gowns for baccalaureate services

Pinafores, short pants, and beanies composed the preferred attire for Senior Week Kindergarten Day. On Wednesday, seniors donned bermudas, tennis shoes, and shades to dress in the style of Bermuda Day. Thursday, Hobo-Hillbilly Day, found seniors clad in suspenders and patched clothes while carrying jugs of "powerful stuff." Ending the week, seniors dressed in their best for the final day of Senior Week—Dress-up Day.

Held at the Hammond Tech auditorium on June 4, the seniors met to carry on the tradition of Baccalaureate services. Speakers were the Reverend Dominic Pallone of Saint Catherine of Siena Catholic Church and the Reverend David Chesebrough of Meadow Lane Baptist Church, chosen by the Council of Churches.

Meeting together as a class for the last time, on June 7, the seniors gathered at the Civic Center as a climax to their high school careers. Before receiving their diplomas the Class of 1967 heard the valedictory and salutatory addresses and also speeches by Mr. W. W. Becker and Mr. W. Lee Martin, who is connected with the Department of Speech and Theatre at Indiana University.

LEAVING THE AUDITORIUM after commencement exercises, two graduates pause and reflect on the past four years of high school.

ATTIRE IN CAPS and gowns, Vicki Williams and Jerry Finley take a last look at the school.

setting of prom 'in the still of the night'

"IN THE STILL OF THE NIGHT," the 1967 prom, found isolated couples gliding to music by Ronnie Rodgers' Orchestra.

ONE LAST CHECK in the mirror makes Linda McGoggart feel more prepared for her date.

Soft blue lights, tiny white silhouettes, and a color scheme of varying shades of blue set the mood of the 1967 prom—"In the Still of the Night." Ronnie Rodgers and his Orchestra provided the music for the long-awaited and hoped-for formal event, held at the Scherwood Club. Months of planning by the junior class made the night of May 20 one to be long remembered.

Audience participation keynoted the acts of the After-Prom Party. Toushay, a professional pickpocket, and Sonny Mars, a comedian and former disc jockey, provided the entertainment for prom-goers. Planned by the juniors' parents, the party had a less-formal atmosphere than the prom, including contemporary dancing and music by a combo, "The Facts." Also held at Scherwood Club, the Post-Prom Party offered a buffet-style dinner.

Couples spent the day after the prom at the beach and at picnic grounds. All formal signs of the previous evening disappeared as students donned bermudas and shades for a day of rollicking fun and good times.

Overcrowded conditions had become a way of life at Morton. Every classroom was in use each hour of the day; students and teachers could not find a quiet place to study.

continue to make MHS excel academically.*

academics

"...8, 9, 10, FREEZE!" Junior Phil Gaginsky assumes the position of a boy batting a ball in a "10-count freeze." Other students in the "freeze" work at pantomiming children playing various games.

GREASE PENCIL and proportion ruler in hand Gerolyn Heslinga learns the process of cropping pictures for journalism class.

Speech, english classe

FOLK SONGS provide entertainment and a knowledge of people for Chris Baker, Terry Grubb, Kay Swank, and Theresa Kimmel.

"YOU DID IT!" senior Joe Jorosz charges freshman Greg Stregie in a spontaneous pantomime.

HOW TO SHOOT AN ARROW is only one of the main points in sophomore Cliff Brousch's demonstration speech for his English III class.

broaden speaking, literary knowledge

Reading and writing, two of the three "r's" of education, are the first concerns of English classes at Morton.

Students read many novels and plays not only in courses that stress reading, but also in grammar and composition courses. These range anywhere from GREAT EXPECTATIONS to THE HUMAN COMEDY and from JULIUS CAESAR to THE OLD MAN AND THE SEA.

English literature is mainly concerned with English writers and their backgrounds. Students who wish to further broaden their literary knowledge may choose to take world literature. This course, which is new at Morton, covers literature from the Russia of Tolstoy to the America of John Knowles. American literature gives students an insight into the heritage and customs of America through the work of native authors.

Students interested in dramatics or speech have found ways of expressing themselves in the oral presentation of written works. For others who wish to write rather than speak, courses such as journalism are offered.

Speech and journalism are one semester courses in which students learn the basics of speaking and writing. After these courses students may plan to go on to debate and forensics or work on the MORTONITE or TOP HAT.

THE MAIN CONCERN of Miss M. Hunter is to describe the good characteristics of a book report to Mike Usinger.

Accelerated language courses present

WHILE PRACTICING THE TECHNIQUES of pronouncing French sentences, Connie Lonnin and Terry Hiduke use the department tape recorder. Students are aided by these tapes which help them to hear the correct usage.

PLAYING 'TORO', THE BULL, and the matador, Dennis King and Mork Simko demonstrate the art of bullfighting, the national sport of Mexico.

DEMONSTRATING his ability to relate ideas in the German language, Fred Willison attempts to sell Louro Lundquist a box of Keks cornflakes.

challenge for study

"Tempus fugit!" Words such as these greeted students returning to third year Latin. Advanced class members studied Cicero's orations and other Roman classics. Although Latin is considered a "dead" language by some, the number of students at Morton taking Latin is equal to those in all other language courses combined.

Movies, guest speakers, and research assignments comprised the extra aids used in French classes. The purpose of using these aids was to help students understand French culture and ways of living. Tape recorders were used by students to help learn pronunciation.

Translation, sentence composition, and basic conversation were important parts of Spanish classes. Students in first and second year courses concentrated on grammar and vocabulary building and perfected phonetic techniques. Students learned the customs of Spain and Mexico by projects such as making a piñata in class.

Using the language as it is used in Germany is one phase of the second year German class curriculum. Students learned the practical application of the language. The reading and translation of the novels William Tell and Faust advanced the translation skills of students. German was the only language allowed to be spoken in third and fourth year classes.

HIS HANDS COVERED with a papier mache mixture, Terry Rhodes starts the construction of a "piñata" for Spanish class. A "piñata" is a brightly decorated ornament full of candy.

VIA THE WATCHFUL EYE of Mr. W. Ruff, Norma Reitz is caught using an 'illegal aid' in her Latin V class.

Business, math lead

PONDERING OVER HER SELECTION, Gayle Herochik studies the title and time span of a book for a U.S. history report. Book reports have become regular assignments in some classes.

SETTING UP A DISPLAY for world history showing the spread of Buddhism are Marty Vicari, Chuck Pinsan, and Mike Clark.

TAKING TIME OUT to find "what's what" in the world of finance, Bill Harvey scans the "Wall Street Journal" for his economics class. Students learn the effects of inflation, depressions and foreign aid on the national economy.

students toward jobs in changing world

ANGLE TRISECTION, a project concerning rays, angles and circles, is explained by John Soltys. Such projects for advanced algebra make math problems more visible to students.

WRESTLING with a troublesome typewriter ribbon, Linda Williams learns one of the skills taught in business courses.

To gain control and master fundamentals in first year typing classes, amateur typists used music to help improve their rhythm. After learning basic finger reaches, students began to type short sentences and simple problems. Advanced students used timed writings and type-written manuscripts to perfect their typing.

Stenography is a continuation of typing and shorthand. Besides learning the basic duties and needs of an office worker, students in stenography gained a better knowledge of the business world through the use of office equipment. In shorthand students learned and practised the various symbols and signs that compose the different sounds in the English language.

Mathematics is daily becoming more of a necessity than an elective. General math is a course designed to give students a general background of math. In this course students learn the basic properties of addition, subtraction, multiplication, and division.

Students in the college preparatory course are able to take algebra and geometry. These courses stress the use of theorems and postulates. Advanced algebra and trigonometry offer a continuation in mathematics for those students who wish to pursue this type of course.

AWAITING HER TURN, Laura Luketic watches as Randy Drummond takes a test with a typewriter cover on his head. Students used the test to help them stop peeking at the keyboard.

HOOKING WIRES for a turtle heart experiment are Catie Stanley and Mr. J. Rosmussen. Such experiments help students to study animals.

OBSERVATION of the "prancing mouse" enable BSCS biology students Chris Czlanka and Elaine Gaida to study the process of animal reaction.

Experiments, field trips open doors for MAKING USE OF A seine (net) biology students learned about water life. All BSCS biology students participated in the water field trip in the spring.

OPERATING AN OSCILLOSCOPE for advanced physics, Chris Skarupo and Cal Barnes learn how electrical currents can be measured and made visible by a wavy line on a fluorescent screen.

UTTERLY CONFUSED, Jenny Miner tries to see the future of other psychology students by reading palms.

students desiring knowledge in science

To help understand current science developments in business and industry, students used field trips and movies in addition to regular chemistry classes. Chemistry and physics students jointly participated in a field trip to the Standard Oil refineries. At the end of this trip students completed a required report.

Chemistry is a study of mixtures, elements, compounds, and chemical reactions. Physics is a more mathematical course dealing in the study of heat, light, weight, sound, density, radioactivity, and motion.

For the first time in seven years, the Morton science department offered psychology. Students taking this course studied the process of learning and how to learn. They also studied patterns of human behavior, intelligence, and processes of thinking.

Students in biology classes performed experiments with white mice training them to react to certain stimuli.

Botany and zoology offered a continuation of basic biology courses. Botany is the study of plants and their environments. Zoology students did further research on animals and their life processes.

CAREFULLY MEASURING a mixture to be used in a chemistry experiment, Cary Zneimer and Mike Usinger watch carefully so that they do not spill or waste any of the liquid.

Driving classes emphasize auto safety

THROUGH THE COMPARISON of two abstract charcoal drawings, art student Cindy Echterling learns about content.

Purdue Calumet Campus parking lot was the scene of many parallel parking practices for driver education students. Enrolled Morton and Bishop Noll students were required to participate in classroom activities as well as driving in surrounding areas. At the end of the course students planned a two hour trip and drove to any place they wished in the time allotted.

Another course that had record enrollment this year was physical education. Due to a very large freshman class and inadequate facilities, some students had to postpone their gym classes until the second semester. Besides the usual work with basketball, field hockey, volleyball, and badminton, the girls learned how to use archery equipment. Folk and square dancing, taught in gym classes, helped build co-ordination and rhythm. When the weather grew warmer, gymnastics and baseball comprised most class periods.

Students in Art I and II learned the fundamentals of design, contrast, light, and the use of basic art tools. Advanced class members participated in a poster contest, sponsored by the American Merchant Marine.

Besides annual concerts, students in the music department participated in the musical production, OLIVER! The vocal students played the parts of the characters in the play and orchestra members accompanied them.

ASSEMBLING HER FLUTE before class, sophomore Nony Boxley prepares for a short warm-up practice.

RACING TO BEAT THE OTHER GIRLS in getting ready before gym class is the main objective of freshman Pam Kingston.

STRETCHING to get the ball for their teammates are Steve Budzik and Bob Hepworth.

POINTING OUT the use of the various instruments on the car's dashboard to senior Vicky Longawa is driver education instructor Mr. H. Stout.

Gov' nors learn fundamentals of wood

USE OF THE POWER DRILL is one of the skills learned in shop. Jeff Sopo demonstrates this for Danny Hoffman.

INDIVIDUAL STUDENT INSTRUCTION is used by Mr. F. Concialdi with Stan McCaw to provide extra help in mechanical drawing.

CONCENTRATION and skill are combined to help Jerry Bagner and George Buechley complete their shop assignment. Projects such as bow and arrow racks helped to build skills.

shop, home economics to increase skills

PERMANENTLY PRESSED SHIRTS are the primary thoughts of Rick Schwortz as he attempts to put his homemaking skills to practical use while ironing a shirt.

"Knives and spoons to the right, forks to the left!" Members of the boys' foods class sometimes found that setting a table is not as easy as it seems to be. Besides learning how to set tables and iron shirts, boys in clothing and foods courses learned the basic home-making fundamentals. They learned how to cook simple meals and how to sew simple pieces of clothing.

Movies and research assignments played a big part in foods and home economics courses for girls. Both factors were used to give the girls in the classes a better understanding of homemaking skills.

Students wishing to acquire knowledge in the field of precise measurements, construction of scale drawings, and exact lettering took part in mechanical drawing and other shop courses. Special tools were used in the classes to aid students in their pursuit of technical knowledge. Advanced students also worked on two and three dimensional problems.

A new course, descriptive geometry, was offered this year in connection with the mechanical drawing division at Morton. This course deals with space relationships, solid geometrical problems, and three line constructions. This class was open to all students.

Safety is the main objective in shop classes. Gun and bow and arrow racks were the projects completed in wood shop. In this course students learned the correct use of power tools such as drills and jigsaws.

BURIED BY PILES of cloth destined to become blouses and skirts before the end of the semester is Corole Cornelison.

As Morton's population exploded, facilities grew inadequate. Clubs met after school. Dramatic equipment was stored in the basement. A new school will alleviate these problems. A larger auditorium will allow one assembly to serve all students. An enlarged stage will facilitate the production of more involved scripts.

The organizations themselves will not change—only their meeting places.

of self-government

Encouraged by Morton's Student Association, school clubs held monthly dances to raise money and provide entertainment. Good attendance at these affairs assured their continuance throughout the year.

This year's Association scored at least one first in its history. Breaking a thirteen-year tradition, a girl — Hazel Witte — attained the office of vice-president. She and the other two officers attended summer institute where they studied parliamentary procedure.

At Christmas time the Association participated in the city-wide "Toys for Tots" campaign. Old stuffed animals and other toys were collected and distributed to underprivileged children. Other projects included new parking stickers and a revised Student Directory.

Serving as an amateur rating service, Historical Club polled Governors on various timely issues. The results of these polls, along with student comments, appeared in the MORTONITE. This year the club became a member of the Hammond Historical Society. Sponsoring bake sales and a car wash, members earned money to finance a trip to Chicago museums and galleries. Money from these projects also made possible a Christmas bowling party and a beach party in June.

Concern for two Vietnamese children prompted Government Club to organize its annual dance and assembly program. Holding an informal dance for the second year, club members voted to continue with "Cupid's Concerto" as the annual name for the affair. "Cupid's Concerto, 1967" grossed over 200 dollars for Be and Trung. The assembly, complete with fake television stars, added several hundred dollars to the fund.

essential qualification for honor groups

Hard work and superior grades paved the way for entrance into Morton chapters of national honorary organizations. Those attaining a set number of points in speech or drama were eligible for National Forensics League or Thespians. National Honor Society stressed scholarship and participation as entrance requirements.

Almost 60 Governors—an all-time high—became members of Honor Society at this year's April initiation. In addition, 18 underclassmen were awarded provisional membership as an incentive for achievements. Both old and new members helped plan the annual banquet.

Clubs provide outlet for creativity

Qualifying ten individuals and one two-man debate team for regional competition, Morton's speech clubs captured the third place Sweepstakes trophy in this year's Sectionals. One young orator—senior Chuck Starks—went on to qualify for state finals in oratorical declamation. This event consists of choosing and delivering a speech written by another person—usually a known speaker.

To meet transportation costs to various tournaments, speech clubs sponsored "Battle of the Bands." The dance, open to all city students, featured regional combos. Using their tickets as ballots, those attending chose the Tastic Mojos as their favorite group.

Forming the bulk of play committees, Theater Guild members devoted much of their time to making Morton's productions successful. Between plays members participated in Actor's Workshop where they perfected acting skills. Stage plays and college productions also served as models for correct techniques.

Concentrating on developing new drawing skills, Art Club took trips to area art museums and studios.

Holding a formal banquet in February, Phy-Chem Club honored members Dennis Dawson and Charles Guzis for their success in the Westinghouse Science Talent Search. Composed of students taking physics or chemistry, the club toured Standard Oil and Argonne Laboratories, site of a huge atomic reactor.

Exhibits at Morton and the Hammond Public Library gave Photo Club members a chance to show their work. Responsible for MORTONITE and some TOP HAT pictures, the club used the money that they earned to buy new materials for the photography labs.

In charge of audio and visual equipment, Cinema Club members showed movies and operated expensive recording instruments. Several members were involved in producing sound effects for the school plays.

Meeting the requirement of a B or better average, Tutors assisted others in subjects causing difficulties. Part of the money earned through tutoring was placed in the club treasury. Tutors used these funds to make a contribution to Morton's adopted orphans.

Sponsoring a roller skating party and a bake sale, Biology Club earned money to purchase expensive instruments for the Science Department. A spring trip to the Purdue University laboratories advanced their knowledge of new techniques in biological research.

Interested in scientific careers, the Zoology Club invited speakers to give talks and show movies on various job opportunities. Field trip destinations included the Indiana Dunes State Park, St. Catherine's Hospital, and an animal hospital. CAREFULLY MEASURING Carol McCarty's height, FNC president Lynn Bagley performs one of her duties as a nurse's aide. Such work helped prepare her for nursing.

To further their knowledge of education careers, Future Teachers of America invited new Morton teachers to relate episodes of college and student-teaching days. Members obtained some real classroom experience by assisting teachers in the elementary building. Selling ribbon at Christmastime, FTA earned a total of over 200 dollars for its scholarship fund. Each senior member who entered college received a small scholarship.

Trips to nearby companies, helped acquaint Future Secretaries of America with job opportunities in their own area. Seniors in Morton's FSA chapter gained on-the-job training by spending a day helping secretaries in local businesses. This year's FSA prepared a Thanksgiving basket for an area needy family.

Members of the Future Nurses' Club, working as assistants to the school nurse, prepared for prospective hospital positions. Under a new point system those meeting certain requirements earned club pins. At the spring awards banquet graduating seniors were honored with gifts. "Operation Christmas Card," sponsored by the club, cheered the lives of servicemen in Vietnam.

Looming deadlines swamp busy staff

All-American honors went to Morton's yearbook, the TOP HAT, for excellence in style, planning and total appearance. Scoring 978 out of a possible 1000 points, the yearbook also earned Medalist honors from the Columbia Scholastic Press Association. It was the third time in the past four years that the TOP HAT has received top ratings in national competition.

Although following the precedent set by previous books, this year's TOP HAT was different in several ways. Color on the Homecoming, prom, and play spreads and an enlarged opening section were two of these changes. Necessary because of the increasing enrollment in the high school, eight extra pages provided room for more extensive coverage of school affairs. Costs for these additions were met by selling extra advertising space to local merchants and school organizations.

As preparation for their new positions, this year's co-editors attended summer institute at Indiana University where they studied copywriting and editing.

Aspiring journalists publish newspaper

MORTONITE CO-EDITORS Linda Lowrance and Vicki Williams and managing editor Lu Ann Schwandt check a story.

Faced with a 50 per cent cut in its budget, the MORTONITE staff had to struggle to make ends meet second semester. Staff members worked to sell extra advertising space but could not produce enough money to keep the paper on its regular bi-weekly schedule. The staff did succeed in preparing a "flyer" at Sectional time plus several editions at three-week intervals.

Awarded first place honors by two national rating services, the MORTONITE drew a record number of aspiring journalists in January. Working under crowded conditions, they helped put together the last issues of the paper that would be published at the old school.

Designed to honor industrious young writers, Quill and Scroll ushered in new members at candlelight ceremonies. Club projects included the annual TOP HAT-MORTONITE game and the staff banquet.

Designed to help teenage girls develop in mind and spirit, service clubs offered Governors an opportunity to help others less fortunate than themselves.

Beginning their activities with initiation ceremonies in January, Y-Teens planned several service projects for the year. The first was a bake sale held to earn money to send a CARE package overseas. For Easter members organized an Easter egg hunt for the children in Carmelite Home for Boys. Proceeds from a computer dance co-sponsored with the Association were also used for the Carmelite Home. At the Y-Teens spring banquet members who had accumulated the highest number of points for leadership and service received small awards.

Life for residents of the Woodmar Nursing Home was perhaps made a little brighter through the efforts of the Home Ec and Girls' Clubs. Twice during the year members from these two service clubs made cookies and punch to take to the elderly people at the Home. Composed of girls interested in domestic skills, Home Ec Club also sponsored a Mother-Daughter Fashion Show where students modeled their handmade outfits.

Only males were eligible for Morton's two exclusive boys' clubs—Hi-Y and M-Club. Meeting at irregular intervals, members planned a wide variety of projects.

Playing a key role in Homecoming activities, Hi-Y took responsibility for readying the field for half-time ceremonies. Their duties included setting up the Top Hat platform on which the queen is traditionally crowned and providing chairs for the queen candidates and their escorts. In November club members collected canned goods and money to supply Thanksgiving baskets for needy families in the Hessville area.

Sponsoring the "Has Been-Will Be" basketball game, M-Club earned money to continue the display of team pictures in the north hall. The game, an annual clash between departing seniors and the present underclassmen, featured boy cheerleaders and players covered with black paint. M-Club members, all of whom have earned one or more letters through participation in Morton's seven indoor and outdoor sports, also boosted spirit by sitting in the cheering block at basketball Sectionals.

state-wide contests

Traveling to Kankakee, Illinois, members of the Concert Choir appeared before the Music Education Club at Olivet Nazarene College. Invited to sing, members also toured the campus and listened to a collegiate performance of the "Messiah." Although the Concert Choir as a whole did not participate in any contests, several soloists earned second place ratings in state competition.

In the spring the Choir performed at the All-City Music Festival held at the Civic Center and at Morton's Baccalaureate and Commencement. Climaxing their singing careers at Morton, senior members received awards according to the number of points they had earned through assemblies, concerts, and extracurricular groups.

Only members of the Concert Choir could participate in the Mixed Ensemble, also known as "Swing Sixteen." Singing carols at Hammond City Hall, the group took part in the "putting up" ceremony of the large Christmas tree. As members of the Vocal Department, the Mixed Ensemble and Girls' Choir sang at assemblies and concerts designed to entertain and raise money.

By combining their efforts, the musical and vocal groups earned a total of 1100 dollars though the sale of candy. This money was added to the fund for Concert Choir robes and new boys' Choir blazers.

by performing for concerts, assemblies

Working directly with the Drama Department, Morton's Orchestra provided the background music for the spring musical OLIVER! Although the Orchestra is responsible for the overtures and intermission scores at all Governor productions, it is only during the musicals that members have a chance to actually accompany the players on stage. In addition, the Orchestra performed during the fall and spring concerts and at the state contest in April. Through its participation in the Music Department's candy sale, Orchestra earned money to purchase material for new gowns for girl members. Ending their activities, members held their annual party where the most valuable senior was presented the Letter Lyre award and graduating members received pins.

"Snowed out" of the regional contest by the Big Storm in January, Carillons competed in the state vocal contest at Butler University. There they received a second place rating in their division. Refining their skills through daily practice, Morton Band members performed in parades, contests, and home football games. In March five Governor instrumentalists journeyed to Butler University where they participated in Indiana's All-State Band. Facing state-wide competition on April 15, the Band won first division awards in both concert playing and sight reading. During the summer, members marched in the annual Mardi Gras parade at Chicago's Riverview. Money earned from concerts and the sale of candy and fire extinguishers brought the Band closer to its goal of new uniforms.

Also part of the Concert Band, Dance Band musicians played at the Dress-Right and Homecoming assemblies, concerts, and the annual Band and Orchestra party.

Holding a bake sale in the spring, Music in Perspective Club purchased new tapes and stereo LPs to add to the club collection. This money also strengthened the fund for a high fidelity sound system.

Organizations combine to boost spirit

Bus trips, painted clapping blocks, capes, and signs were all a part of this year's Booster Club. One of Morton's largest organizations, Booster Club's main function was to stir up support for athletic events. Cutting and sewing new red and gray capes, members worked with the cheerleaders to develop routines for the cheer block. During November the club held a dance to raise money for the athletic department. After viewing the baby pictures of six varsity football players, students attending the affair voted for the baby they thought would grow into the best player. Steve Vadas was crowned "Mr. Football" at the dance held in the gym.

Practicing twice a week resulted in the first place district award and the third place state trophy for Morton's twirlers. Traveling throughout the state, members of the squad displayed their talents in contests and exhibitions. One of their main activities was performing at home football and basketball games.

In compliance with the President's Council for Physical Fitness, members of the Girls' Athletic Association participated in a strenuous program of activities. Bowling, tennis, swimming, and gymnastics helped develop these girls into active young women.

place honors in Northwest Conference

Striving to uphold the glory of a state champ team, the Governors set out to take state honors, capture the conference title, and extend their winning streak. They came within two games of accomplishing these aims.

Morton fans had their eyes on the Tech Football-O-Rama to see what kind of team head-coach Maurey Zlotnik and assistants Bob Gollner and Nick Luketic would produce. 1967 looked good with Morton dominating the O-Rama by beating Tech, 16-0, and Gavit, 14-0.

Easy victory over Michigan City, 19-0, the first game of the year, provided the team with a foundation on which to build. The following week the defense stopped Bishop Noll from scoring on Morton's 20-yard line and ended the game 14-7 in the Governors' favor. Clark's team struck first in their encounter with M.H.S. — that was all the points they scored — as the Governor gridmen came storming back with a 27-6 victory.

Morton gained attention as they collided with the East Chicago Washington Senators. Mistakes on the Senators' part and excellent execution of plays by Morton gave M.H.S. a 19-0 lead at the end of the first quarter. From then on it was the Senators' time to score, ending the game in a tie 19-19.

The fifth game of the season, against Tech, showed that the boys could bounce back from a depressing game the week before to win 34-13. Another team having the privilege of scoring first on the Governors were the Whiting Oilers. M.H.S. came back with five touchdowns while only allowing one more for the Oilers. The final score was Morton 34, Whiting 14.

With an unblemished record for 18 games, M.H.S. came up against the Rough Riders of Roosevelt. Capitalizing on early game mistakes, the Riders had a 13-0 lead at half time. The gridmen scored early in the second half, but Roosevelt iced the game with a field goal, ending the game in their favor 16-7.

With only two games remaining and all hopes of state honors, conference title, and lengthening the winning streak vanquished, the squad prepared to take the city title. The scoring machine and strong defense of the gridmen handed Gavit a 37-7 loss, showing that the bow to Roosevelt did not hamper the Governors.

Coming up against archrival Hammond High, the coaches and team kept in mind that never in Morton's football history have the Governors beaten H.H.S. twice in a row. M.H.S. succeeded in overwhelming the Wildcats on a snowsoftened field, 42-14, taking the city title successfully for two straight years.

DIVING FOR FIRST DOWN YARDAGE, D. Mustoe goes under to three Tech Tigers as B. Harvey awaits the outcome.

SUSPENSE DWELLS IN THE MINDS of these Morton Governors as they await their turn on the playing field.

Skill and work compiled a record which enabled this year's wrestling team to stand first in the Northwest Conference. Mr. R. Gollner, assisted by Mr. F. Kepler, led the team to fifth place in the sectional race.

A victory over Portage gave the matmen spirit which carried through the entire wrestling season. This determination was shown by beating such worthy opponents as Hammond High, Hammond Tech, Portage, and Horace Mann. One well-deserved victory was over Hammond Gavit, which was undefeated for two years.

The team voted senior Ken White as Most Valuable Wrestler and senior Chris Skorupa as Captain. The boys each earned recognition by compiling individual records of 11-1 and 9-1 respectively. Another individual award went to junior Ron Meseberg, with a record of 14-1. He took first place in the sectionals and second in the regionals in the 165-pound weight class.

Finishing the 1966-67 season, the Roundballers defeated the remaining four out of six opponents before entering the sectionals. Relying basically on towering height and individual scoring spurts, Morton's Cagers won nine games while losing two.

Getting off to a rather shaky start, the Governors lost to Gary Emerson in the initial contest and then nudged out Bishop Noll by a score of 66-61. Confronted by the Vikings of Valparaiso, Morton fell, 81-63.

By Holiday Tourney time the record stood at three wins and four losses. In the tournament Morton placed third by first falling to the favored Roosevelt Rough Riders, 65-44, and then battering the Whiting Oilers.

Following tournament action, the Cagers suffered a close loss to Griffith. The squad gained a moral victory as they nearly upset the highly rated Panthers 69-66. In the following game Morton won a close decision in the remaining seconds of overtime against cross-town rival Hamtramck by a score of 79-71.

Temporarily set back by two successive losses to E.C. Roosevelt, 50-42, and Hammond High, 79-77, the Governors bounced back to subdue Highland, 65-62, and start a new winning streak. Following up on their success, the Morton squad crushed Clark 71-67. In the game opposing St. Joe, Morton's control of the backboards was evident as the Cagers whipped the Indians, 71-67. Ending the year the team routed Whiting.

JUMPING HIGH, L. Robertson takes deadly aim for the hoop.

SECONDS BEFORE play is resumed, Mr. J. DePeugh, Morton's coach for seven years, attempts to boost the spirits of his wearied roundballers. While these talks stimulate the cagers, they also give the players a moment of rest.

FOULING OUT in the remaining minutes of the Hammond-Morton sectional bout, senior L. Robertson unsuccessfully attempts to change the official's decision.

MAKING POSSIBLE another Governor victory senior F. Tokoly is boxed in by two Wildcats as he takes a shot.

In what will probably be remembered as the two biggest upsets of the Hammond Sectionals, the Morton Governors smashed the tournament hopes of sectional favorite Hammond High, 65-62, only to fall to the Mustangs of Munster by a score of 76-62.

Never losing the lead gained in the first two minutes of play the Governor defense proved itself as it held the Wildcats to 26 out of 90 shots from the floor. The Morton squad trailed in all the statistics except the vital free-throws and field goals.

Munster gave the Governors a real battle as the lead see-sawed between the two teams the entire game. The high scorer was senior Frank Tokoly who was responsible for half of the Morton team's 62 points.

WITH TIME RUNNING OUT senior Ron Volbrecht concentrates on regaining the lost basketball and scoring two points.

Displaying a style of baseball that again brought the City Championship to Morton, the 1965-66 Governor baseball team totaled a 16-2 record. Although this was the first year in region-wide competition, Morton secured the Indiana Northwest Conference title.

Morton's first victory was over the Calumet Warriors with a score of 5-0. However, MHS was temporarily set back with a loss to Gary Wirt, 7-3. A winning streak continued for the next 14 games. Hobart was the second and last team to defeat the Governors.

In an 11-6 victory over Hammond Tech, the Governor baseball squad proved to be a hitting team. With an 8-0 shutout over the Hobart Brickies, the schedule closed.

Defense proved invaluable, while the ballcrew scored 80 runs to its opponents' 44. Shortstop Darrel Chaney and outfielder Jim Shabi worked together as co-captains of the team. "The Most Valuable Player" of the 1965-66 season was pitcher Bob Biscan.

generates enthusiasm at games, rallies

Well-known sounds such as "One, two, three, four, go, Governors, go," could be heard whenever Morton's team faced an opponent at the Hammond Civic Center or on the football field. Shouting these cheers of encouragement demanded spirit and enthusiasm on the part of the varsity, B-team, and freshmen cheerleaders.

Adopting new motions for old cheers kept the yell squad busy during practice sessions. To get ideas for new motions and to learn new formations the girls attended cheerleading camp at Syracuse, Indiana.

The girls organized pep rallies and bake sales to contribute money to the cheerleading fund. After school they also worked with the cape section chairman teaching the section new cheers and chants.

Sponsored by Miss P. Martucci, the cheerleaders supported all teams, particularly football and basketball, by instilling crowd spirit and enthusiasm.

Before the senior cheerleaders' graduation, they had one final task to perform—to help select next year's five varsity cheerleaders on the basis of jumping ability, spirit, coordination, and poise.

Officers fulfill pledge for eventful year

VICE PRESIDENT Jim Rospond and secretary Nancy Baasse discuss initial plans for the senior banquet.

DAYDREAMING HAS A SPOT in each senior's day including Tom George's, who takes a break from his economic studies.

Electing executive board members from each home-room was the first step seniors took to assure an enjoyable and memorable year. Under the guidance of class president Ron Volbrecht, vice president Jim Rospond, and secretary Nancy Baasse, the executive board selected wheat and bottle-green for '66-'67 cords.

Much time and effort was devoted by seniors to make this year's homecoming a success. Using money from the class treasury, the graduating class created a multi-colored blue whale with a huge red mouth, denoting the theme "We've Got a Whale of a Team."

Both the Junior-Senior Prom and After-Prom Party were held at the Scherwood Club. Seniors attended "In the Still of the Night," and danced to Ronnie Rodger's music.

Excitement of graduation began with a baccalaureate service and continued to commencement exercises where seniors obtained their high school diploma.

PRESIDING at senior executive board meetings is one of the major obligations of the class president, Ron Volbrecht.

LEADING THE CLASS OF '68 in its activities and undertakings as upperclassmen is President Cal Robertson.

ASSISTING THE PRESIDENT in organizing class affairs is Vice-President Gig Anderson's duty.

Service to school promotes leadership

RECORDING THE MINUTES and doing other paperwork were the jobs of Junior Class Secretary Candy Lessie.

The Class of '68 began this school year with the excitement of spending their last year in the "old" Morton and their first year as upperclassmen.

As upperclassmen, juniors elected an executive board which supervised the planning and construction of the Homecoming float. Under the guidance of sponsors Mr. R. Moorehead and Mrs. J. Hettterscheidt, the Class of '68 chose "Flatten those Tigers" as the theme of their float. They also designated March 22 as their Class Dress-Up Day. The juniors selected "In the Still of the Night" as the theme for the 1967 Prom. This long-awaited event was held at the Scherwood Club on May 20. Ronnie Rodger's Orchestra provided the music for the prom. With the help of their parents, juniors planned the After-Prom Party and selected the Facts, a "go-go" type group.

Juniors also had the opportunity to visit Washington, D.C., and New York City on the annual trip. They walked through the streets of Chinatown, visited the small shops of Greenwich Village, and saw Radio City Music Hall besides touring the famous landmarks of the country.

Since the new school will open in the fall of '67, the Class of '68 will be the first class to graduate from there. They are anticipating a senior year full of new experiences amidst the surrounding of M.H.S.

BECAUSE OF LEADERSHIP AND PARTICIPATION, sophomores elected from bottom to top) Kathy Mosco (sec.), Mary Lou Bogner (v. pres.), and Lu Luketic (pres.) to lead their class.

TAKING AN ACTIVE PART in backing Morton athletics, while enjoying the bus trip to the St. Joe game, are sophomores Mary Ann Stryzinski, Therese Tokoly, and Gerry Rospond.

Upon entering their second year of high school, the sophomore student body showed a greater interest in dramatics, clubs, sports, and extra-curricular activities. The sophomores, who last year were often left out of activities due to lack of experience, participated widely in school functions. Interest in the elections of officers and senators demonstrated the fact that the sophomores were fast becoming an active part of Morton High.

This year the Class of '69 participated in various organizations and clubs. They, along with the other students, played an important part in planning such successful projects as the Inaugural Ball. Sophomores who took part in Girls' Choir, Boys' Chorus, Mixed Ensemble, and Concert Choir performed in assemblies and concerts. They also cooperated with the Dramatics Department to produce the spring musical OLIVER!

Their academic curriculum included some first-hand experiences in the study of biology, literature, and higher forms of mathematics. Some biology classes studied plant and insect life by taking field trips to a pond where they collected specimens.

Next year the sophomore class will enjoy their first year as upperclassmen in the new school. They are looking forward to the new activities such as preparing the Homecoming Float and the prom.

As Morton's largest class ever, the Class of '70 numbered a grand total of 433 students. Along with being a large class came many difficulties which had to be overcome. In order to be able to attend assemblies, special programs had to be scheduled for the freshmen to attend. The gym classes were so crowded that some students will have to take physical education next year.

The Class of '70 really got into the "swing of things" by electing class officers, a representative from each homeroom, and two Senators in the Student Association. Freshmen not only participated in their own football and basketball teams but had their own cheerleaders who tried to stir up spirit.

While choosing which classes to take or which course to follow, freshmen had a choice of either the academic or the general course. Included were such subjects as modern algebra, foreign languages, and the required social studies, English, and physical education classes.

To help freshmen prepare for future plans and careers, they were required to take the Iowa Basic Education Skills Test. The National Educational Development Tests were offered to anyone who was interested.

Administration channels student activities

PRINCIPAL BECKER looks ahead to the new school.

SCHOOL BOARD MEMBERS are—(seated) Treas. C. Scott, Pres. T. Potesta, Sec. L. Stern; (standing) Superintendent O. Rapp, Mr. E. Hudsan, Dr. H. Eggers.

With the prospect of next September's "exodus" to the new Morton before them, the school administration and Hammond School Board worked to guide the Governors through their last year in the old Morton. While Principal W. Winston Becker and his staff considered and approved student efforts and activities, the school board provided funds for campus expenditures.

As principal, Mr. Becker hired new faculty members during the spring and summer months, approved money for school projects, met with student leaders about assemblies, dances, and other extra-curricular functions, and made final plans for the next semester.

Handling truancy, misconduct, student parking problems, and other misdemeanors came under the control of Mr. George Kurteff, assistant principal and disciplinarian. He saw to the enforcement of a student grooming code and made checks on pupils' failing marks. Violators of school rules were given penalties—clean-up duties, detentions, or expulsion—by Mr. Kurteff.

Appropriating money funds and passing new legislation for the school system kept school board members busy at their bi-weekly meetings. The board, chosen by general election, weighed and decided upon bills for all equipment for the new Morton High School.

With the new building the administration and school board will be able to draw from past experiences and make use of new facilities to provide better educational and social benefits for the students.

Vice-principal enforces grooming code

DIRECTOR OF DISCIPLINE and assistant principal Mr. George Kurteff enforced school rules. He also conferred with teachers on student problems.

Enticing people to compare new and old products and services is the primary aim of advertising. Students learn this principle by publicizing dances, plays, and other school activities. Then, when reading an advertisement, they first separate the facts from added glamour. By coming into contact with reputable merchants during the formative high school years, young people learn better "buymanship."

An open book can open doors

In our recruiting we ask that applicants have completed their High School education. That's because we try always to fill higher, more responsible jobs from the ranks of our employees. And the records show—the better the employee's education, the better he is at his job—and the better he does for himself.

Inland employees continue to gain knowledge and experience in special trades through formal apprenticeship programs offered in the following trades—Machinist, Patternmaking, Boilermaking, Welding, Shop Electrician, Wireman, Mason and Pipefitter.

Many concentrate on certain phases of steelmaking by working in production while others work in laboratories helping to assure quality or developing new and better products for our customers.

How about you? Inland Steel is steadily expanding. More and more opportunities will be open to you as our growth continues. Are you ready?

Dear Governors,

The staff has attempted to make the 1967 TOP HAT the finest yearbook ever published at Morton, since it will be the most up-to-date version of our school's story.

We've also tried to emphasize familiar traditions and to relate these to you and your new school because ". . . all the past is future."

Sincerely,

Linda Nichols and
